Women's Organizations Oppose Plan to Convert Home Into Soldier Hospital

APPROPRIATION FOR HOSPITAL JUSTIFIABLE DECLARES HUBER

State Under Obligations to Care for Mentally Deranged

MADISON, Wis.—That the Taycheedah Home in Fond du Lac County will be opened for its original purpose in view of the indication of the joint finance committee of the legislature during the past few days, with the result that the opening of the Taycheedah home about July 1 new seems possible.

A hearing was held before joint finance committee Tuesday afternoon over the Huber bill appropriating $500,000 for the establishment of a soldiers' hospital here for mentally deranged ex-soldiers.

Representatives of city of Fond du Lac appeared before the committee to urge that the Taycheedah home be used for this purpose. Senator Thies and Ex-Senator A. J. Pullen, both of Fond du Lac, urged the use of the Taycheedah home for soldiers.

"People of Milwaukee are very anxious that the Taycheedah home be opened for the purposes it was originally created for," said Assemblyman Frank Prescott, Milwaukee, "I am for the use of the Taycheedah home for its original purpose."

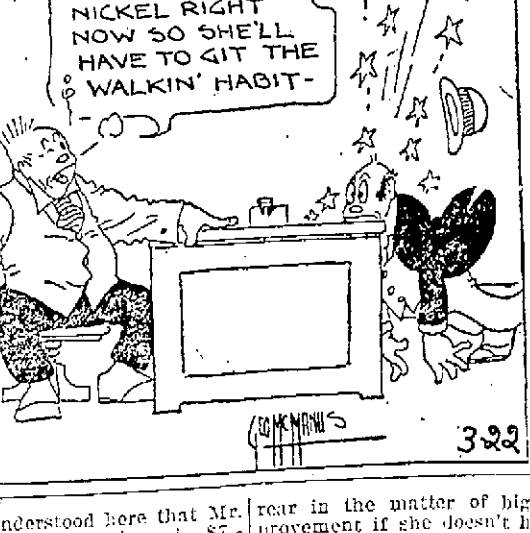

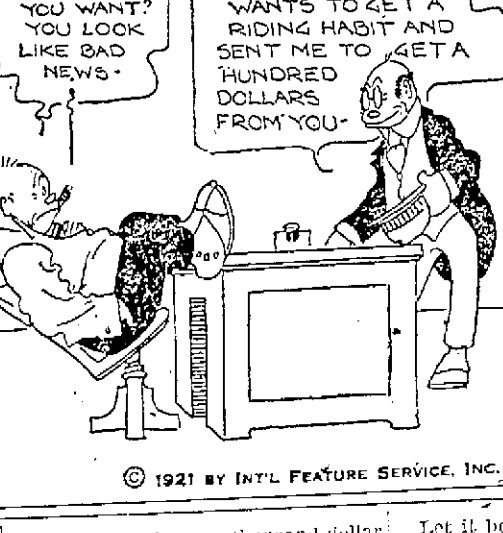

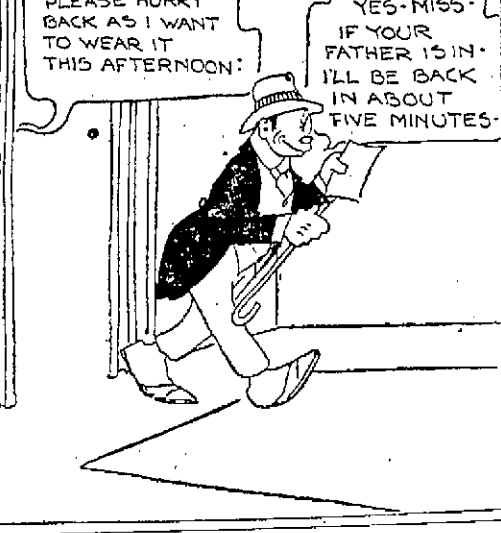

"If we were justified in spending almost $18,000,000 for the cash bonus and the educational bonus for soldiers," declared Senator Huber, "we are certainly justified in appropriating $500,000 for this hospital to care for ex-soldiers. The parents of these disabled boys do not care to send them to insane hospitals and I think it would be a great blessing to state if the $500,000 asked for can be granted and this institution established."

"We ought to have a larger bed capacity at least," said Major W. J. Lorenz, director of the Psychiatric hospital. "In April 1919, before all the A. E. F. had returned, the federal authorities sent us a confidential list of soldiers in this state who had been discharged suffering to some extent from mental disease. This list totaled 756 and 250 more may be added to account for those who since returned in the same condition from France. At present we are filled to capacity with 106 cases. About sixty of these cases are of necessity mingling and getting the same treatment as our pauper insane."

Vestibled cars for railroad engines was the topic of discussion in the senate judiciary committee Tuesday when the Severson bill providing that all engines in the state shall be so equipped was heard.

Senator Severson's bill is backed by the brotherhood of firemen, primarily. They contended that the se-

HANG ON TO HURST

Editor, La Crosse Tribune, City.

Dear Sir: What is to become of our Wisconsin highway system? How many of the people who read this are aware of the fact that A. H. Hurst, the man who made possible our present, unexcelled system of highways, has resigned for the reason that the salaries allotted to the present personnel of his commission are not adequate to make a position on his staff interesting to the kind of men who are required to aid in carrying out the future highway program.

There is in 1921 an available total of $21,000,000 for highway work. This is one-half the sum that has been spent on this type of construction in the last eight years. This goes to show the rapid strides we are making towards road improvement in our state. It is a credit to every tax payer in the state that we are getting this money for improvements but it is a regrettable fact that we are forgetting about the salaries of the men whom we expect to give us this twenty million dollars worth of new and improved highways. If we have a thousand dollar business we get thousand dollar men to run it but if we have a twenty million dollar business is it fair to expect that our thousand dollar men will handle it as efficiently and expertly as we require. It appears that we have forgotten that the salary of a man grows with the size of his job, at least it should. This year we have twenty millions available for improvements, and the one man who has proven his ability to handle the job which this vast appropriation calls for, is resigning because he is afraid to tackle the job with the aid of the thousand dollar men under him, who will be entirely unfitted for the work.

Let it be understood here that Mr. Hurst, whose present salary is $7,500.00 per annum, is not asking a higher wage for himself, although he is without question a one hundred thousand man. He is simply asking a sufficient appropriation to enable him to maintain a staff of engineers who will be capable of handling the work in question.

It appears to me that it is time for some one to wake up! Wisconsin's motto is "Forward" but she will actually be making full speed to the rear in the matter of highway improvement if she doesn't hang on to Hurst.

Yours truly,
D. A. OTT.

NEGRO KILLER AT CAPITAL CITY IS DECLARED INSANE

MADISON, Wis.—Marshall O'Bannon, colored, who recently killed Rev. J. C. Fox and wounded J. A. Josey, both negroes, was adjudged insane Tuesday afternoon by doctors of the Wisconsin psychiatric institute, and has been recommended for confinement in an insane asylum. Judge A. C. Heppman of the superior court will order the prisoner sent to an insane hospital.

O'Bannon is a returned serviceman, suffering from shell shock. He was previously listed among the men having mental disease, and it was found that he committed the alleged murder while mentally unbalanced due to his experience in the army.

IMPORTANT TO EVERY MOTHER

Do you know the best energy food for children?

GROWING children need a great deal more energy food than adults, for they use up so much more energy. Every mother and father knows this.

The food element that furnishes the greatest amount of energy is Dextrose. Most of the food you eat—such as bread, starchy vegetables, and all forms of sugar—has to be changed into Dextrose before your system can use it.

Karo, the Great American Syrup, contains a very large percentage of dextrose. This gives Karo its wonderful energy-producing value, and is what makes it so nourishing and wholesome for children—as well as for grown people.

Give the children all the Karo their system needs—on cakes or bread, or for making delicious, pure home-made candy.

baking, candy making and preserving. Because of its honey-like appearance many prefer it as a spread for cakes, biscuits, breads.

Investigate

PILOT C. C. EVERSOLE, who will be remembered as the young man who leaped 2,600 feet out of a failing mail plane at Mendota, Minn., a few weeks ago, landing safely by virtue of a parachute he was wearing, has been demoted in the mail service. He was set back to a mechanic's job, and when he refused to accept mechanic's rating was removed from the pay roll.

One recalls the controversy between Eversole and his superiors at the time of the smash-up, in which the latter officially charged Eversole with deserting his ship needlessly, and the pilot declared he had been sent up with a defective plane. The attitude of the officials made not the best impression at the time, so ready did they seem to ascribe all blame to Eversole on the basis of mean motives which they implied actuated his conduct, and so emphatically did they scout the possibility that anything could have been wrong with the ship he flew. The report on the accident, considered as a whole, seemed to be more devoted to absolving everyone but Eversole of blame than of any effort to discover the cause of the accident and suggest means to prevent repetition.

Under the circumstances, one is inclined to sympathize with Pilot Eversole's demand for an investigation of the entire incident. He was pretty well blacked up by the mail service inquiry into the crash, and the demotion lends enough additional color to his claim that he is being persecuted as a result of the incident to make an unprejudiced sifting of the business seem not unreasonable.

Give 'Em a Chance

If conflicting state jurisdictions are troublesome for railroads, how much more of a bother must they be for aviators, who in a few hours of flying can hop across two or three state boundaries, and can scarcely make a straight-away flight of more than an hour without crossing the invisible boundaries between one jurisdiction and the next? Aviation is still in its infancy, and comparatively little attention has been paid to it by law-making bodies, but already no less than fifteen distinct and conflicting codes of regulation for flying have been adopted by cities, counties and states. More are following suit from time to time. Already the aviator is beclouded in a mist of peculiar local regulations. Here are some of the rules, selected more or less at random from regulations recently passed by the governing bodies of New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Atlantic City, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Vermont and Maryland:

- Don't throw things from your plane.
- Don't sail over animals or houses.
- Don't fly until the State Highway Commission gives you an O. K.
- Don't fly lower than 4,000 feet.
- Don't fly until a $1,000 good conduct bond has been pledged.
- Don't fly until licensed by the federal government.
- Keep away from churches and steeples by a margin of 1,000 feet.
- Don't fly except between the hours of 9 a. m. and 4 p. m.
- Don't do tricks in the air.
- Fines for violations range from $10 to $500.

Obviously no time is to be lost about a movement to secure a federal code of air-traffic rules which will operate uniformly in all parts of the country. Otherwise the day is not far distant when the airman will hardly dare to fly five minutes from his home field for fear of fracturing one of the innumerable local rules which restrict the traffic. A special commission is working in New York to persuade congress to take jurisdiction and enact the necessary uniform laws. More power to its elbow!

Non-Resisting Defiance

GERMANY, say dispatches, will refuse to make a payment of a billion marks which the reparations commission has demanded of her under the terms of the treaty by Wednesday. While the German reply has not been outlined, except the hint that it will contain a claim that in deliveries already made she has paid in full the twenty billion marks which were demanded of her by the commission, it is probable that she will also call attention to the occupation of certain of the Ruhr cities by the allies as an incident which alters the situation. So, at least, Dr. Simons indicated in his last statement to the reichstag. What will the allies do about it? Is the question which is immediately uppermost. Will they occupy more territory, or will they make a compromise? Speculation on the point cannot well evade the belief that, short of actually taking over Germany as a captured province, and endeavoring to administer its local government and industry under that assumption, the allies have done just about all that can be done to force Germany to pay. They can occupy more territory, but the meager results of the occupation of the Ruhr do not warrant the hope that this would prove a fruitful expedient. To seize Germany in a sort of military-commercial receivership, to run her industries and her government for the benefit of the creditors, is an adventure in statecraft which has never yet been tried and which is quite likely to cost more than any financial return it could squeeze out. German trade and industry is in a shape which the Germans themselves find difficult to operate—in alien and hated hands it could hardly be productive. The German policy of non-resisting defiance is a baffling problem for the allies to solve.

The Incubator

TURNING the searchlight on conditions at Ellis Island, where four-fifths of all immigrants get their first contact with American institutions, has revealed a jumble of physical filth, disease, hardship, official inefficiency, inhumanity and heartlessness.

The consequences must be considered from two sides—the effect on the immigrant and the effect on America. Combined, there can be only one conclusion, that Ellis Island is a danger spot. Its malignant influence, if what is said of it is fact, is reaching out and threatening the public health, the Americanization movement, our standard of citizenship and our greatest national asset—love of America, pride in American institutions, and loyalty.

Congress should go after Ellis Island as thoroughly and by the same procedure that doctors go after pestilence. It should investigate, diagnose, decide upon a remedy, and apply it quickly. A policy of economy is no excuse for delaying the operation. Ellis Island collects more than enough from immigrants to give them the best of care. Commissioner Wallis, in charge, points out that "the government has made $5,000,000 more out of immigration than it has spent," though the immigration service never was intended to yield a profit.

The immigrant of today is our neighbor of tomorrow. Whether he will become a good citizen or not may depend in large part on what congress now does to clean up and reorganize Ellis Island—the incubator of citizenship, good or bad.

In Ye Olden Times

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY
Col. Orlando Holway, La Crosse, commander of the Third Infantry, W. N. G., was today appointed one of two Wisconsin field officers to participate in the great army maneuvers to take place in San Antonio, Texas, in April. He is to report at San Antonio April 5 with full equipment.

Richard Iverson, until a few months ago superintendent of La Crosse parks, has been appointed superintendent of parks at Calgary, Alberta, Canada. The steamer Ellen, the palatial pleasure boat of the Carrolls, was tested yesterday by Captain W. A. Thompson and a party of government men. Whether or not the deal for the purchase of the boat by Uncle Sam will go through will be announced soon. Trustees of the Carroll estate have asked $10,000 for the boat which cost $25,000.

The board of official inspection of the state of Wisconsin is in the city to make an inspection of the La Crosse normal school. The street car company is leveling and improving the tracks at the Mill street crossing and in other of the worst spots along the line.

An interesting romance in Indian life began in this city last night when Wanwa, nineteen-year-old daughter of Winneago Chief John Whiteboy, eloped with Indian John Wankon and went to Chicago. Chief Whiteboy has asked the aid of local police in getting his daughter back.

Mr. F. A. Goodrich, who has been connected with The Morning Chronicle for many years, left the service of that paper yesterday. He contemplates opening a real estate and collection office.

The John Salzer Seed company has received an order for seeds from Argentina, South America. Articles of incorporation of The Chronicle company were filed with Register of Deeds Larson. The company has a capital stock of $100,000. The incorporators are Ellen Lush, C. K. Lush and W. B. Tschacter.

It is a receptacle in which anglers place their funny spoons while waiting for a trout stream. The cover is held by a spring and the center is an egg shaped aperture which allows the fish to be shipped in without raising the lid. It was invented and patented by Cordell and Strong of this city.

Mr. J. G. Schweizer of Prairie du Chien, brother of Charles Schweizer of this city, has come to La Crosse to make his home.

A meeting was held last night at the establishment of James A. Trane for the purpose of forming a Contractors' and Builders' association in La Crosse. A new series of postage stamps to be known as the Buffalo series will soon make their appearance. The one cent stamps will be given in color and the two cent stamps red.

A Man For the Ages
BY
Irving Bacheller

"Thankie, mister. You done right good to us."
"Who told you to come here?" Samson demanded.
"Twere a man from St. Louis. He done said you hated the south and were holdin' niggers to run away."
"And he offered to pay you to come here and burn this house and run Traylor out of the county, didn't he?" Abe asked.
"He did, yes, sah—he said did," answered the man—like a child in his ignorance and simplicity.
"I thought so," Abe rejoined. "You tackled a big job, my friend. Did you know that every one of you could be sent to prison for a term of years and I've a good mind to see that you go there. You men have got to begin right now to behave yourselves nighly proper or you'll begin to sip sorrow."

Stephen Nuckles returned as Abe was speaking. "You jest leave 'em to me, Mr. Lincoln," he said. "These be good men but at Satan done got his hooks on 'em. Miss Traylor, if you don't mind I he go to do a job of prayin' right now. Men, you jest sit down on y' knees right here afore me."

The men and the minister knelt on the parlor floor while the latter prayed loud and long for the saving of their souls. Every one who heard it felt the simple, moving eloquence of prayer. Kelsa said that Christ's love of men was in it. When the prayer was ended the minister asked permission to go with the niggers to the barn and spend the night with them. "Of this serious event Samson wrote in his diary:

"Of what was done in the barn I have no knowledge but when Nuckles came back to the house with them in the evening the minister said that they had come into the fold and that they would promise for them that they would be good citizens in the future. They got their breakfast, food and watered their horses and rode away. We found five men up in the freesteps and the dog on watch. The minister went out and preached to them for about half an hour and then prayed for their souls. When that was over he said:

"Now, boys, are you ready to accept Christ and a good breakfast? If not you'll have to get a new girl on yer yowes and set right back while I preach another sermon. That ain't nary one of us go to break our fast till you're willin' to be saved."

"They cried in. 'I couldn't stand another sermon no how,' said one in a sorrowful voice. 'I feel like a wounded bird. Send up a charge of buckshot if you love us, but don't preach no more sermons to me. It's just a waste o' breath. I reckon we're all on the month's bench.'

"When they had come down out of the freesteps not one of them could stand on his legs for a little while."

The gentleman of the sorrowful voice and the broken spirit said:

"Pears like I'll have to be tuk down an' put together again."

They were meek and sore when they limped to the cabin and washed on the stand by the door and went in for breakfast. After they had eaten the minister prayed some more and rode away with them.

It is recorded later in the diary that the rude Shepherd of the praeries worked with these men on "farms for weeks until he had them 'anted to the fold."

CHAPTER XI

In Which Abe, Elected to the Legislature, Gives What Comfort He Can to Ann Rutledge in the Beginning of Her Sorrows. Also He Goes to Springfield for New Clothes and is Astonished by His Pomp and the Change in Eli.

Rutledge's grocery had been so wrecked by the raiders that his owner was disheartened. He-enforced by John Cameron and James Rutledge he had succeeded in drawing them away before they could steal whisky enough to get drunk. But they had thrown many of his goods into the street. Rutledge mended his windows and offered his stock for sale. After a time Berry and Lincoln bought it, giving notes in payment, and applied for a license to sell the liquors they had thus acquired.

The Traylor had harvested a handsome crop of corn and oats and wheat only to find that its value would be mostly consumed by threshing and transportation to a market. Samson was rather discouraged.

"It's the land of plenty but it's an awful ways from the land of money," he said. "We've got to hurry up and get Abe into the legislature or this community can't last. We've got to have some way to move things."

None of their friends had come out to them and only one letter from home had reached the cabin since April. Late that autumn a boy baby arrived in their home. Mrs. Oustoff, Mrs. Wadell and Mrs. Kelsa came to help and one of the other of them did the nursing and cooking while Sarah was in bed and for a little time thereafter. The coming of the baby was a comfort to this lonely mother of the praeries. Joe and Betsey asked their father in whispers while Sarah was lying sick where the baby had come from.

"I don't know," he answered. "Don't you know?" Joe asked with a look of wonder.

"No, sir, I don't—that's honest," said Samson. "But there's some that say they come on the back of a big crane and at the right home the crane lights up pecks on the door and thumps 'em off just as gentle as he can."

Joe examined the door carefully to find where the crane had pecked on it.

That day he confided to Betsey that

SHE LIKED TO "FIX HER ROOM"; NOW AN INTERIOR DESIGNER
[What a Girl Can Become!]
Not a one of the girls in our neighborhood had a prettier or cozier room than Marion. She didn't spend a whole lot of money fixing it up, but it seemed so easy for her to make the simplest and ugliest thing look most attractive by adding a few touches here and there. She was always sketching with a pen or pencil or paint brush, too.
So I wasn't greatly surprised when I learned recently that Marion is now a successful interior decorator with studios in a thriving city of the middle west. She makes on an average of $5,000 a year, and has a staff of people working for her regularly.
When Marion was in high school she was always reading books and magazines on interior decorating and designing. We all laughed at her for spending her evenings and other spare moments "so foolishly," but she said nothing and continued her studying. Wise girl.
Well, when she graduated she obtained a position in an interior decorator's shop, and commenced learning the business. Her salary wasn't much, but she worked up into a good position. All the while she was developing her love of beauty and her good taste by real experience.
A few years later, after serving her apprenticeship in the home-town shop, she left our town and went to the middle western city where she opened up her own studio. Today she is one of the most successful in her profession.
The demand for skilled interior decorators is great. New office buildings must be finished as attractively inside as out. Private homes, apartment houses, hotels, and even hospitals, furnish a rich field, too.
A two or three year course in an established art school is good. The public librarian may be able to recommend some. But often special schooling is beyond the financial means of a girl. If so, she can do as Marion did and get her training through practical experience.

BOYHOOD STORIES OF FAMOUS MEN
John M. Browning
"Dad, I want a gun," said John to his father, who made and mended firearms.
Mr. Browning hesitated a moment, then, "All right, son, I'll lend you this one if you'll be careful."
"But I want one that really is mine."
"Can't afford it, son," returned John's father.
"Then I'll make one myself," and off John trotted. Picking up the odds and ends his father had discarded, the fourteen-year-old boy worked away until he had assembled a very good piece. He took it to his father for inspection.
After trying it out to be sure that it didn't shoot out the middle or the back, Mr. Browning pronounced it as good a firearm as he himself could make.
That was the beginning of the career of John Browning. He became a gun wizard, inventing firearms which are now used in nearly every country. His inventions during the World War were his greatest achievements.

The Lion of Waterloo
(By Dr. William E. Barton)
The battlefield of Waterloo is easily reached from Brussels. A half day is sufficient to go out and see the principal sights and return. He who makes the journey in that spot and there had beaten Napoleon, and that she stood ready to meet all comers from his direction. But during the World War, the lion was quietly turned around, and made to face Germany.
This is enough to make the ghost of Napoleon smile grimly. He never expected to be called up on the outjig, and heard and informed of such a performance.
It would be better, however, to mount that lion on a swivel. The situation in Europe affords no assurance that the Lion of Waterloo will be content to face any one point of the compass with perpetual roar in that direction. Changes in European policies may make it advisable for someone to slip across the channel almost any dark night and erect a derrick and lift the growling old king of beasts and face him with a menacing roar toward some other nation.
Lions are restless just now.
In his opinion the baby didn't amount to much.

LIFE UNFAITHFUL TO MARRIAGE VOW CHARGES STILLMAN

Mrs. Stillman Accused of Infidelity at Preliminary Divorce Hearing

DIAN GUIDE FATHER OF HER CHILD, HE DECLARES

Wife Asks Alimony of Ten Thousand a Month

LA CROSSE, Wis., March 22.—A divorce hearing was held at the La Crosse court today. Mrs. Anna F. Stillman, wife of James A. Stillman, president of the National City bank of New York, was the mother of a child by an Indian guide who was made supreme court case Wednesday by counsel for Mr. Stillman during preliminary arguments in the divorce case. The bank president has brought, according to Judge Morschauser, to preside at the hearing on alimony and counsel fees, Delaney N. Morschauser, chief counsel for Mr. Stillman.

Evidence already before the court shows that Mrs. Stillman took as her Indian guide by whom she had an infant son, whom Mr. Stillman must either acknowledge as his child or his family or repudiate as a bastard.

His criminal intimacy began in 1920 and continued through 1921. Stillman feels it his duty to his memory, to his family, and to his children to press this matter to a conclusion.

It has been possible to do this wisely than in court proceedings. It would have done, but there was no way to make the mother and child defendants in a suit. Nicol said he could not understand the feelings of a father whose child is born to him by a woman who would hesitate to take court under such circumstances.

Hearing is Short
Hearing lasted only about half an hour. When it was adjourned at 10:30, Morschauser reserved on the motions before him a fee of $10,000 a month and $25,000 for Mrs. Stillman.

Court opened so many spectators into the room that the judge had been stationed at the rear of the court to prevent entrance of any one who were all the seats filled. Many persons stood on the floor.

Morschauser called several witnesses but requested that they be called later in the morning. He turned to attorneys for Mrs. Stillman, who in reply asked as to whether they were needed.

"We shall be long," said Mr. Nicol. "We will be very short," said John Brennan, one of Mrs. Stillman's attorneys.

Had Half Million Income
The lawyers then plunged into the question of Mr. Stillman's income. It finally was admitted by one of his attorneys to have been $500,000 in 1920. Counsel for the defendant claimed it amounted to $800,000 in 1920.

Mr. Brennan conceded that the figure of $500,000 was correct for the year of one year, and said that now he had been supplied with this information he had no further need for pressing for an examination of the plaintiff.

MIDWEST BANKERS IN CONFERENCE AT ST. LOUIS TODAY

Diversion of Funds Caused Dakota Bank Failures Declares Delegate

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 22.—Financial conditions throughout the middle west were outlined Wednesday by delegates to the tenth annual conference of presidents, vice-presidents, and secretaries of the Central States Bankers' association.

Numerous bank suspensions in North Dakota were caused in part by the diverting of public funds, according to W. C. McFadden of Fargo, N. D., secretary of the North Dakota Bankers' association. The heavy depletion in the price of grain was another factor, he said. McFadden explained that the law which created the bank of North Dakota designated it as the depository for all public funds.

"This included not only state, county, and municipal funds, but those of the State university, school of Forestry and other public institutions," he said. "As a result the treasurers of these had no control over their funds."

Approximately three million of the public funds was diverted to investment in mortgage loans and $1,000,000 for a mill and elevator, he continued, adding "this upset the financial and business structure of the state."

PER CAPITA MILK CONSUMPTION SET AT 44 GALLONS

WASHINGTON.—The average American today is a great milk drinker and consumes twice as much as former generations, according to the department of agriculture. The consumption of milk last year was estimated at 44 gallons per capita, not including that used in ice cream, cheese and butter.

While every family had its own cow in colonial days, the department experts said the present day development of dairy centers with modern methods and transportation facilities make it easier now for the city consumer to get his milk supply.

Hostilities between Great Britain and America in 1813 continued for three months after the signing of the treaty of Ghent, due to the lack of communication facilities.

No Let-Up in Quality

THE one factor which is guarded carefully and never allowed to vary is the quality of products manufactured by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

The price may go up or down as the markets of the world may dictate, the quantity of products may vary as the demand for them varies, but the quality which has been established by specifications determined with scientific exactness, remains fixed.

Only an organization financially secure, physically well-equipped and directed by men mentally alert, could maintain the high standard of quality which has been the crowning achievement of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is an organization of 25,000 experienced, capable men and women who are carrying out with enthusiasm the plans and policies formulated by 7 trained directors.

These plans and policies are designed to furnish maximum service to the public, regular profitable employment to the personnel and protection to the more than $200,000,000 which the stockholders have invested in the business.

In furnishing service to the public no single factor is so important as the insistence upon a uniform high quality of every gallon of product manufactured, an insistence which is felt in the most remote corner of the organization and of the 11 states served by the Company.

Take, as an example, Red Crown gasoline. This is but one of fifteen kinds of gasoline manufactured and sold by this organization. Each is made to meet certain uses for which gasoline is needed. Red Crown is made for use in the modern internal combustion engine and for this purpose it has no superior. Red Crown is the last word in a gasoline for power purposes. That this is generally recognized is attested by the fact that last year 725,000,000 gallons were sold and used by the people of the Middle West.

This tremendous volume is the inevitable result of uniformity, high quality and reasonable price. It is but one phase of the business but it serves to symbolize the earnest, honest endeavor which every individual connected with the organization is putting forth to enable the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) to furnish the public a highly essential service.

NATIONAL LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS TO MEET IN APRIL

Report of Child Welfare Work Demand for Markets and Milk Depots to be Features

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Representatives of 2,000,000 women voters will meet in Cleveland April 11-16 to discuss women's share in the nation's government.

A call for the meeting which will be the second annual convention of the National League of Women Voters has been issued by Mrs. Maude Wood Park, chairman of the organization.

At the same time it was made known that within the year the league has perfected its national organization and has organized leagues in every state in the union, with subsidiary districts, county and city organizations.

One thousand delegates and alternates will attend the convention. Preceding the six-day sessions will be a three-day conference and business meeting of the board of directors of the league to close the business of the year. An informal reception is scheduled for Sunday evening, April 10, the day preceding the opening of the convention.

A feature of the opening day's program will be seven dinners, each presided over by the chairman of one of the seven standing committees of the league.

The convention will select its own legislative program for 1921-1922 from the reports of the standing committees, following the recommendations of the board of directors.

One of the important reports to be made to the delegates will be that of the child welfare committee, of which Mrs. LaRue Brown is chairman. For a year the committee has been working for the enactment of the Sheppard-Towner bill, providing federal aid for maternity and infant care.

"Inasmuch as the federal legislative program of the league already contains provisions which are likely to occupy its full attention for another year, it seems unwise for the child welfare committee to recommend the enactment of new legislation," is the opinion of Mrs. Brown.

At the same time the child welfare committee recommended endorsement of standards "to be attained by state legislation when necessary and by non-legislative means where possible," and submits a program for state action.

Mrs. Edward P. Callahan will present the findings of the year's investigations regarding the cost of living and the manipulations of food stuffs. Her recommendations include co-operation with all federal agencies to secure the proper production, distribution and use of food, the enactment of state laws forbidding profiteering and improper hoarding, the establishment of public markets, abattoirs, milk depots and other terminal facilities, also legitimate co-operative associations of producer and consumer.

HUNT WIFE SLAYER

WAKEFIELD, Mich.—County and city authorities are still searching for Mike Mulvihill, who Tuesday morning slashed his wife's throat with an axe and then beat her on the head with a piece of stove wood, in their home at Verona. Physicians say that Mrs. Mulvihill will live, unless blood poisoning sets in. The attack is believed to have been prompted by a desire on the part of the husband to procure a divorce, but which the wife refused to sanction.

KIWANIS CLUB GOES ON RECORD AGAINST RAISING OF TAXES

Opposes Three Bills in Legislature and Others Which May be Offered

At its regular meeting Tuesday, March 22, 1921, the Kiwanis club of La Crosse adopted the following resolution:

"Whereas, it is necessary from a standpoint of economy to limit the expenditures of public moneys in order not to place too great a burden upon our people, and

"Whereas, certain legislation now pending in the Wisconsin legislature will greatly increase the already heavy burden of taxation, as to the citizens of Wisconsin and will place all business and industry in the state at a disadvantage as to outside concerns, which they can not overcome, and will materially retard our progress, and

"Whereas, as citizens, we are being urged to economize, therefore, be it

"Resolved, that it is the sense of this meeting that we are opposed to the passage of the bills known as (1) the Severson bill, (2) the County bill, (3) the Arnold bill, also any and all bills which operate to increase taxation in the state during the next two years. It is further

"Resolved, that the secretary of this club be and is hereby instructed to forward copies hereof to our representatives in the senate and assembly and arrange for publication and circulation throughout the state."

SLAYER THREATENS WIFE OF VICTIM

Fear Keeps Woman Silent on Murder of Husband

MANCHESTER, Ia.—A country-wide search is being made for Lloyd Schuler, 21, who according to information given to authorities, shot and killed his brother-in-law, William Matusch, 30, on the latter's farm. While the murder was committed Sunday night, officials were not advised until Wednesday when the wife of the slain man told the sheriff.

According to Mrs. Matusch, after Schuler killed his brother-in-law in the barnyard following an argument, he went into the house and told his wife and Mrs. Matusch and her daughter that he had killed William, and he would kill them if they breathed a word about it. Matusch employed Schuler as a farm hand.

Schuler wrote a letter to the sheriff confessing the murder but contending self-defense.

OWNER STARTS SUIT TO SECURE RELEASE OF BONDED WHISKEY

First of Kind Filed in U. S. Courts Since Enforcement of Prohibition

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—Suit to compel Volstead law enforcers to release from government bonded warehouses large quantities of whiskey wanted by its owner, a former distiller for personal use, has been filed in federal court here by J. W. Keller of Paducah, Ky.

Mr. Keller, a former distiller, says he owns a number of barrels of whiskey in a warehouse at Early Times, Ky., and seeks a mandamus against the collector of internal revenue and the state prohibition director to require them to release the whiskey. He also asks that United States District Attorney Gregory be enjoined from prosecuting him should he be able to move the goods.

The plaintiff claims that he had put the liquor aside for entertainment of his friends, guests and himself in his Paducah home and that in January he applied to the revenue collector for permission to pay the tax and remove the whiskey. He was referred to the prohibition director, who told him his request could not be granted.

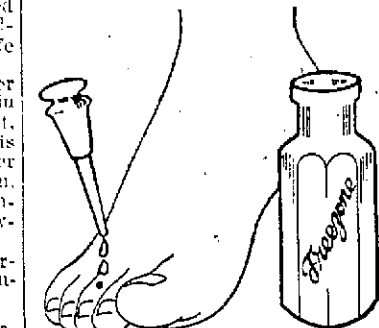

The suit is the first of its kind filed in the federal courts since the Volstead act became operative, it is said.

Arguments will begin Friday. ROB JEWELRY STORE CHICAGO, Ill.—Robbers early Wednesday broke the windows of a Loop jewelry store and escaped with jewelry valued at $5,000.

TWO AMERICANS ARE SENTENCED TO TERMS IN GERMAN PRISON

Detectives Convicted in Connection With Attempt to Kidnap Grover Bergdoll

MOSBACH, Baden.—Carl Neuf and Franz Zimmer, American detectives, have been sentenced to terms in prison in criminal court here for "illegal assumption of power," in attempting to arrest and abduct Grover C. Bergdoll, American draft evader, in Eberbach last January. Neuf, against whom a charge of "inflicting bodily injury" has been preferred, was sentenced to jail for fifteen months, while Zimmer's term was fixed at six months. The additional charge against Neuf arose from a bullet wound suffered by a young woman when a revolver was fired during the attempted abduction.

Four Germans who were tried as accomplices of the Americans, were found guilty and sent to jail for terms varying from five to eleven months.

DENY SUPPRESSION OF NEWS OF "U. W." GIRLS' POISONING

MADISON, Wis.—University of Wisconsin clinical authorities, who last week declared that not more than fifteen girls were affected by poisoning from eating food served in the university cafeteria, today announced that fifty-four cases were recorded by the department as having received medical attention, or as having applied for expenses for absence from classes as a result of the affair.

Dr. J. S. Evans, professor of clinical medicine, said that no attempt had been made to suppress the news of the poisoning. He said that at the time of the previous announcement only fifteen girls had been recorded as having been affected.

Chemical analysis of the food served in the cafeteria hall and at the university cafeteria has revealed no evidence of poison, the doctor announced, stating that similar situations had arisen before but that they have been quickly taken care of without publicity.
